Futurist, Philosopher and Transformer

Unleash Your Inner Master Trainer!

Conventional training techniques too often appeal to the least capable part of our mind. This typically only allows the student to absorb only about 6% of the material presented.

What if you could consistently present superior classes that are both fun and informative and with students achieving exceptional levels of recall?

What you will learn:

- How to quickly gain and maintain rapport with any audience from one to thousands.
- How to rapidly enter the “trainer state” so that you present with charisma.
- How to present to various learning styles with ease.
- Multiple ways to elegantly bypass resistance to learning.
- How to present more material in a shorter timeframe.
- How to present effectively to the powerful subconscious mind so that learning is complete and lasting.
- How to reinforce learning with proven recall techniques.

This is not a course for the average trainer. It is designed for the professional communicator who wants to present exciting and content rich courses for a wide range of learning styles. This course uses the modern techniques of Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP), classical and recent innovations in hypnotherapy, and cutting edge neurological research to produce clearly masterful training professionals. This is a “must” course for anyone serious about becoming a leading edge trainer.

Dr. Tim Brunson has over 30 years of training experience, including having taught on the faculty of two universities, serving as the head of a four state transportation school, having provided instructors to 23 universities, and working for the U.S. government as a head of training for eight Southeastern states. Additionally, his training and clinical experience as a doctor of clinical hypnotherapy and as NLP trainer have given him unique insights into communication, training, and the human mind. He facilitates and coaches individuals, organizations, and corporations who are seeking to excel through transformation. Also, he produces clearly superior Master Trainers and Communicators who employ powerful and entertaining techniques designed to achieve unheard of results.
