

Dr. Tim Brunson

Futurist, Philosopher and Transformer

Combattting Negativity!

Corporate managers, human resource professionals, healers, and others in the helping professions constantly deal with negativity. This not only reduces productivity, but it also has its toll on you mental and physical health. This workshop teaches you how to understand this chronic problem, how to inoculate yourself, and how to achieve astounding results.

Anyone who deals with other people will find their performance and health adversely affected by the negativity of their supervisors, customers, and employees. This is especially true of professional “problem solvers” such as human resource managers, therapists, and those in the healing professions. Protecting yourself with barriers is not the answer as this makes you less effective while failing to prevent many undesired effects.

What if you could inoculate yourself from negativity while becoming more effective both as a communicator and as a “helper”?

What you will learn:

- How your mind and body are affected by negativity.
- Why traditional boundaries and barriers reduce your effectiveness without resolving the impact of negativity.
- Multiple simple techniques that will essentially inoculate you from the ill effects of dealing with those who come to you for assistance.

Dr. Tim Brunson has over 30 years of training experience, including having taught on the faculty of two universities, serving as the head of a four state transportation school, having provided instructors to 23 universities, and working for the U.S. government as a head of training for eight Southeastern states. Additionally, his training and clinical experience as a doctor of clinical hypnotherapy and as NLP trainer have given him unique insights into communication, training, and the human mind. He facilitates and coaches individuals, organizations, and corporations who are seeking to excel through transformation. Also, he produces clearly superior Master Trainers and Communicators who employ powerful and entertaining techniques designed to achieve unheard of results.

Tim@NLP-USA.com 256-237-8049
www.TransformationSolutions.com

Transformation Technologies, PO BOX 367, Anniston, AL 362021